BOOK REVIEW

THE MALAYSIAN JOURNAL OF INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The Malaysian Journal of International Relations (MJIR) is an open-access, peer-reviewed journal published annually by the Department of International and Strategic Studies, University of Malaya. The MJIR welcomes original contributions related to international relations, foreign policy, diplomacy, political science, international political economy, strategic and security studies, and related fields, to be considered for publication. In particular, the journal welcomes manuscripts with a focus on international relations in the Asia-Pacific.

Objectives

The world of international politics in the 21st century is a dynamic one, with challenges as well as opportunities. Contemporary news highlights the threat of nuclear proliferation, of terrorism in various parts of the world, climate change, and of the continuing side effects of the financial meltdown. Equally, there are opportunities to advance such causes as nuclear disarmament and crisis resolution. Hence, there is a need for scholars to address the challenges and arising issues in contemporary world affairs. Along these lines, the objectives of the MJIR are to promote scholarly research on international relations and strategic studies, to provide a channel for the publication of articles based on research, original thoughts, and commentaries on these topics, and to stimulate further debates and interests in the study of international relations.

Articles, which do not conform to the format described below, will not be considered for publication. All manuscripts under consideration for publication will be refereed via a double-blind reviewing process and it will be open-access. Identities of both the reviewer and author are concealed and not made known to each other throughout the review process.

A brief biodata of the author of around 70 words should be included, along with acknowledgements (if any).

In a multi-author case, the corresponding author should be identified. All co-authors should have seen and approved the final version of the manuscript and agreed to its submission for publication. All authors should include the financier or grant giver if the research is financed by the research grant or any financial support body. The author is responsible for communicating and co-operating with the editor to retract or correct the paper when there is a significant error or inaccuracy in his/ her published work.

Blinded Manuscript

Submit a blinded manuscript without authors' names, affiliations and acknowledgments (if any) in the text.

Abstract and Keywords

Each manuscript should begin with a brief and explicit, single-spaced, indented and italicized abstract in English of not more than 200 words, describing the main arguments and conclusions of the article. Please also indicate 4-6 keywords below the abstract.

Length

The MJIR welcomes manuscripts, commentaries and book reviews. The full manuscript should be between 6,000 - 8,000 words in length, including illustrations and references. For commentary, it should be of 2,000 words in length. The book review should be between 1,000 - 1,500 words in length. The book to be reviewed must be recent, published in the last three years. Please provide full bibliographical information (title and edition, if any), author, place of publication, publisher, year of publication, number of pages, ISBN numbers) at the top of the page (see some of the published book review in the archive section of the journal).

Text Formatting

The manuscript should be typed, single-spaced in 12 point Times New Roman, with standard margins (1" on the top and bottom, 1.25" on the left and right), with pages numbered consecutively. Manuscripts should be in Microsoft Word (.doc or .docx) format only.

Language and Style

Manuscripts submitted to the MJIR must be written in British English. Check the grammar and spellings carefully before submitting. Alternate -ize spelling is permissible. For short quotations, full points and commas fall inside a closing quotation mark. Quotations longer than 30 words should be indented and single spaced, using no quotation marks. The author should take note of the copyright implications of long quotations. Use British style for abbreviations, with full points (e.g. Dr., Ph.D., Ltd.). Use 'State' (except in quotations if the original is not so capitalized) to refer to the central body politic of a civil government and 'state' to refer to other senses of the term, including a country or political territory forming part of a country (except when the term begins in a sentence).

Particularly if English is not your first language, before submitting your manuscript you may wish to have it edited for language. This is not a mandatory step but may help to ensure that the academic content of your paper is fully understood by journal editors and reviewers. In the event of acceptance, we will ask authors to render articles according to the full style guide.

Use of Non-English Text

A non-English term should be italicized but the s-ending (if added) in its anglicized plural form should not be italicized. Note that the names of institutions and movements, local or foreign, and names of currencies, local or foreign should not be italicized. Quotations from books or direct speech in a non-English language should be set in quotation marks and should not be italicized, followed by an English translation in square brackets. Quotations translated by the author of the manuscript into English should be so indicated.

Numbers

Spell out numbers one to nine, and use numbers consecutively (e.g. 10). Use full point for decimal and commas for number 1,000 and above. Note that a billion = 1,000,000,000 and a trillion = 1,000,000,000,000. Use 'percent', not '%' except in tables and charts. For dates, use day-month-year format (e.g. 1st January 2013), and spell out the months to avoid ambiguity. Do not use apostrophes for decades (e.g. 1990s, not 1990's or '90s). Write all page numbers and years in full (e.g. 245-246, 1999-2012).

Paragraphing and Headings

The first line of all paragraphs should be indented, except for the line following a heading, which should be aligned left. An excessive number of paragraphs should be avoided. First level headings should be in capitals and bold print, aligned left on a separate line. Second level headings should be in bold, and aligned left in a separate line. Only the first letter and proper nouns should be in capital letters.

Tables and Illustrations

Tables, figures, diagrams and maps should be kept to a minimum and contain only essential data. They should appear separately at the end of the text and should conform to page size. Tables should be numbered in sequence with Arabic numerals and contain brief explanatory captions, each on a separate sheet. Figures, diagrams, and maps should be designated 'Figures' and should be included in a single numbered series separate from the tables. The approximate positions of tables and figures should be indicated in the text, by typing in a separate line 'Insert Table Here' or 'Insert Figure Here'. Sources of tables and figures should be cited. The author is responsible for getting permission from copyright holders for the reproduction of visual materials to be published in MJIR.

Footnotes and Referencing

Footnotes should be used for explanation and placed below the main text on a printed page and are identified in the text by a numeral. References should follow the journal's house style, which is the APA in-text citation style (7th edition). References should be carefully checked before submission.

DEPARTMENT OF INTERNATIONAL AND STRATEGIC STUDIES, UNIVERSITI MALAYA

The discipline of International Relations was first introduced to the University of Malaya in the 1970's under the Department of History. Due to an increase in demand for this discipline, in 1992, the International Studies Programme (ISP) was established under the auspices of the Dean's Office, Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, with the first batch of undergraduates enrolling in 1992 and graduating in 1996. Apart from the undergraduate programme, the department also began offering the M.A. and Ph.D. (by research) in 1992. In 1999, the ISP was upgraded and expanded to become the Department of International and Strategic Studies. In the same year, the department also introduced the Master in Strategic and Defence Studies programme. The department launched the inaugural issue of its annual publication, the Malaysian Journal of International Relations (MJIR), in 2013.
